DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This two and one half story frame house is similar in basic design to others on Locust Street, although the details differ. It is a symmetrical house with a gable roof and center gable with a pointed arched window. At the peak and corners of the gable are carved boards with tracery work. There are two center chimneys. The front is three bays long and is spanned by a one story porch, supported by Doric columns, with a plain ballustrade. In front of the center bay, above the front door, is a small porch or balcony with a roof supported by turned posts and enclosed on each side by a ballustrade. There is a small pediment above this balcony. The house is covered with German siding.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This vernacular style house, built in the late 19th or early 20th century, is similar to several others on Locust Street. It contributes to the character of this street which possesses many large 19th and early 20th century houses of architectural interest. Typical late 19th century features of this house are the carved bargeboard with pierced work in the peak of the gable, and the pointed arched window in the gable.
